

I would like to take this opportunity to urge you let stand the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law. It has been a blessing not to have to constantly answer unwanted telephone solicitation calls, unlike the US Mail system which inundates our home with unsolicited credit card and other various bank offers. Banks are a major source of irritation regarding unwanted solicitation and to open up the telephone lines to them would be a definite violation of my privacy. If any action is taken, let it be the elimination of unwanted mail solicitation by banks, many of whom are on your list of supporters of this action. Thank you.

William E. Charleston,
Proud Citizen, Disabled American Veteran, and Taxpayer of our United States of America and the fine State of Indiana.